Memorial for Todd Lenn (2/12/92)

In the Book of Ecclesiastes, chapter 3, we read that there is a time to be born and a time to die, a time to weep and a time to laugh, a time to tear and a time to mend, a time to be silent and a time to speak.

The time has arrived for us who are gathered here to commemorate Todd Lenn, beloved son of Robert and Marilyn Lenn, brother of Keith, loyal friend and comrad to many, conscientious student, the pride of his family, his community, his professors, a role model for his peers. I was fortunate to have had Todd in two of my history courses. In the three and one-half years I knew him I never heard him express an unkind thought, utter a selfish word, or commit an ungenerous act. He always had a pleasant smile and a friendly greeting for all.

Those whom Todd touched are better people through their encounter with him, however brief. During the time he was with us he brightened our lives with his enthusiasm, his sense of commitment, and his youthful idealism. In recognition of his high academic achievement, service, leadership and character, the Social Sciences Division plans posthumously to confer the Pi Gamma Mu Scholarship Medal to Todd and would feel very honored if a member of his family would accept this award at the graduation ceremonies on May 24. Last spring Todd, along with thirteen other students, was inducted into Pi Gamma Mu, an international social sciences honor society.

Twelve years ago, almost to the day — it was February 16 — I lost my father after a long illness. My grief was so intense that I never thought my soul would ever again be healed. Lacking a family support group I sought consolation and answers about the mystery of death in works of theology and theosophy. I found that from East to West, from antiquity to modern times, from primitive tribes to complex industrial societies, the overwhelming majority of mankind has believed in the immortality of the soul. It was only after I was thoroughly convinced that there is no death of, call it the soul, the spirit, the consciousness, that I began to find solace. I realized that separation from those who have predeceased us is not only temporary but illusory, and that a happy reunion with our loved ones awaits us.

I would like to share with you several expressions of bereavement which gave me comfort in my hours of grief. Perhaps those who mourn with us here today may also find consolation in these words:

from Henry Wadsworth Longfellow:

There is no death! What seems so is transition;
this life of mortal breath
Is but a suburb of the life Elysian,
Whose portal we call death.

From the Bagavad Gita — the holy book of Hinduism:
Never the spirit was born; the spirit shall cease to be never;
Never the time it was not; end and beginning are dreams.

Birthless and deathless and changeless remaineth the spirit forever;

Death hath not touched it at all; dead though the house of it seems.

And finally this poem by a lady whom one of our student nurses attended during her final hours. The lady's name was Suzanne Bullock:

The passing of a Soul is like a dream,
Through starlight night upon a crystal stream,
While friends and loved ones who have gone before,
Await us somewhere on a distant shore,
And when the journey's ended there will be
Eternal Life and Love for you and me.

Let us remember that there is one creator, and we are all one in Him. If we can comprehend the transcendence of His eternal Love, we shall grieve no more; for we shall know that whether we live or die we are with the Divinity and that in Him we have our being, whether it be in this world or in the next.

The time has come to release Todd to higher realms. We do this with the assurance that he is in the hands of perfect Power and perfect Wisdom directed by perfect Love.

To My Sweet Maria,

It seems like only yesterday I was holding your hand, bringing you to kindergarten, and here we are now . . . at your college graduation! The pride I am feeling today, as always, is overwhelming. I'm wishing you all the love and happiness in the world. No one is more deserving of all life's best. You have brought so much joy, not only to me, but to our entire family, especially your brother Anthony who not only thinks, but knows he has a one in a million sister. I have always said I wish I had two of you, and that still holds true! I've truly been blessed with a wonderful daughter.

My love always,
Mom
